ASHLAND PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND PROF. BRADNER.

The commencement season of the Ashland Public Schools has come and gone, and it has left in the minds of most of the patrons of our schools that the year just past has been one of the most successful in the history of the schools. Much of his success is due to the faithful and untiring efforts of our superintendent, Mr. James W. Bradner. Mr. Bradner assumed the leadership of our Public Schools one year ago, and with a handicap that was almost enough to damp the courage of the most fearless. This was in the shape of the financial end of our school system. There was not enough money in sight to meet the current expenses of the schools and it was necessary to put the question to a vote in order to raise the taxation, to provide money to meet the deficit. The proposition met with many obstacles and it was necessary for Supt. Bradner to lead the fight in favor of the increased taxation. The result was a decided victory for Mr. Bradner and the public schools.

Since then, Mr. Bradner has worked into our school system, numerous ideas of his own, which have had a decided tendency to better the condition of the schools. He has engendered into pupils the spirit of enthusiasm and a love for their work, which they did not heretofore possess. This was shown in the annual literary contest between the two High School societies and in other ways. He has also established a splendid system of athletics and both boys and girls have taken a deeper interest in physical education than they have for many years.

In all this work, the development of heart and soul power has not been lost sight of. Mr. Bradner's idea is that study is to give one power, discernment, insight to know the truth, the reality, the divine quality of the thing we see or hear—not to load one down but to lift up. In this work he has had the co-operation of parents, faculty and Board of Education, and this has aided largely in the success achieved.

Plans are now being formed for next year. Let us all uphold the hands of our progressive superintendent and thus aid him in bringing our school to a still higher plane of usefulness. — Ashland Independent.

THE POOR, DEAR, OLD, FOOLISH DEMOCRATIC PARTY, WHY IT FAILS.

—John Sharp Williams.
Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, who was the Democratic leader in the House before Underwood, and who berated his colleagues in the Senate Wednesday for quarreling over the reelection of reserve cities and other matters, declared the party was beginning to do just what it could be counted upon doing every time.

"The poor, dear, old, foolish Democratic party," said the Democratic Senator, "is going through the same game that she can be generally trusted to go through soon after she gets into power."

"That is the Democratic party true enough," he continued. "That is its history. That is what led Speaker Tom Reed to say in 1894 and 1895: 'You can't last long because you are not accustomed to governing anybody or anything; you cannot govern the country because you cannot govern yourselves. You are incompetent.'"—Washington Post, (DEM.) (Dem.)

THE INSURANCE COMPANIES' DEMANDS.

In accordance with its custom of opening its columns to all sides of public questions the Courier-Journal gives the insurance companies another hearing this morning.

It may be noticed, however, that Mr. Allison's fervid paper, like others on that side of the issue, ignores several points of legitimate interest. There is nothing for instance, about the excessive expenses of the insurance companies' methods of doing business, which is as material a factor as the fire loss in fixing rates. Nor is there anything to disabuse the public of the conclusion that the companies, having left the State before any attempt had been made to limit them by means of the Glenn law, are now trying to frighten the State into a repeal not only of that law, but of the Zorn law, thus freeing themselves of any State regulation whatever.

In private some of the representatives of the companies say that they are willing to operate under reasonable State regulation; but if that is true they should formulate an act embodying something of what they regard reasonable regulation. The Courier-Journal is anxious to help them repeal the Glenn law, but it is unable to understand why both that law and the Zorn law should be repealed, with nothing to take their place, leaving the companies absolute masters of the situation. — Courier-Journal.

"Stenography is a great line."
"In what respect?"
"If you're a man the boss can't do without you; if you're a girl he marries you."

WOMEN HAVE TO SMILE

In a great many cases and try to make those around them happy, while they are racked with the pain of organic trouble. Few men realize how common such heroism is. The remedy for this condition is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—a simple remedy made from roots and herbs, which for forty years has been overcoming the most obstinate ills of women. Every woman suffering from female ills owes it to herself and family to give it a fair trial.

MANAGER JOHN J. MCGRAW OF NEW YORK GIANTS.

Manager John J. McGraw is the highest salaried man in baseball. Last year McGraw received $10,000 as salary from the New York club and will get the same amount this year and for three more for the new contract he signed last winter at that yearly salary has four more years to run. McGraw's income from baseball last year was $83,500.

McGraw was born in Truxton, N. Y., April 7, 1873. He played his first professional engagement with the Olean, N. Y., team in 1890. After two seasons as the minor leagues he entered the National league as a member of the Baltimore team in 1892, and remained with that team until the end of the season of 1899. In 1900 he played with the St. Louis Cardinals. The following year the American league placed a team in Baltimore, with McGraw as manager. John remained in Baltimore until he signed as manager of the Giants in 1902. On July 19, 1914, he will celebrate his twelfth year as pilot of the National league champions. During his career as a player McGraw was a crack third baseman, and since taking up the managerial end of the game he has developed a number of the greatest stars in baseball.

PSYCHOLOGICAL.

(New York Sun.)

Citizen Outwork, hat in hand, accosted the professor as he came out of Caudill House: "I have a wife and four small children—"

"You only think you have," said the professor; "your state is merely psychological."

"I haven't had any work for six months, since the factory—"

"Fie," cried the professor, taking off his eyeglasses and waving them in a wide gesture of depreciation; "don't you know that nonemployment is merely psychological?"

"My wife and children are actually hungry—"

"Nonsense, my dear sir; hunger is merely psychological."

"My brother has just been 'fired' by the X, Y, and Z. Railroad; the railroad people said they had to reduce expenses."

"How ridiculous; expenses of railroads are merely psychological. So is your brother's discharge."

"Professor will you lend me a dollar? When better times—"

"This is most unbecoming language. What times could be better than these? Times are merely psychological. So is your assumed need of a dollar. Learn to know the need of mankind and to find that need in yourself. Does mankind need money? Do you need money? Then find the money in yourself. Everything but Colonel House and my Mexican policy is merely psychological. Money to a victim of the merely psychological state called 'out of a job' Good by. I wish you more psychology and a better frame of mind."

MAY PROVE FATAL

When Will Maysville People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first. But if you find 'tis from the kidney, That serious kidney troubles may follow.

That dropsy or Bright's disease may be the fatal end. You will be glad to know the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Maysville citizen, Mrs. Della Lunsford, 328 E. Front St., Maysville, Ky., says: "I attributed kidney trouble to a strain. I had sharp shooting pains through my kidneys and a dragging down feeling through my hips. I had dull headaches and dizzy spells and often if I had not caught hold of something for support, I would have fallen. I was in that condition for several years, up one week and in bed the next. I finally began to notice symptoms of dropsy and in a short time I was suffering from that trouble. My feet began to swell and my hands were at times the same way. At night I was restless and always felt tired. I read of a similar case being cured by Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a supply. Before long I was completely and permanently cured. Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life. I am glad to confirm my former endorsement of this remedy."

WHAT REGULATION

COSTS NEW YORK

Two Commissions Spend Interest On Sixty Millions Each Year.

The two Public Service Commissions of New York State, the so-called New York City Commission and the so-called Up-State Commission, are spending, in the exercise of their functions, about three million dollars a year of the taxpayers' money. It is very well to have somebody to curb the so-called rapacious corporations. It is very well to see that watered securities are not issued in the future, but sixty millions of these watered securities at five per cent interest must be wiped out before these commissions have paid their freight. Three million dollars a year is a very large sum to spend for an idea. —Times, N. Y. edition in May Area.

THAT BUSINESS DEPRESSION

An Ounce of Fact Against a Pound of Psychology.

(Philadelphia Ledger.)

President Wilson tells the business men of America that while there is a trade depression it is "merely psychological."

Can an extra dose of psychology give back to 2,000,000,000 railroad owners that $98,000,000 which their properties have lost in eight months this fiscal year, compared with the year before the Wilson regime started?

Is it only a dream or a concrete fact that 1,000,000 workmen are now out of a job?

Can a mental state account for the amazing reversal in America's international trade figures, where a monthly excess of exports ranging up to $50,000,000 has turned into a balance against us of $10,000,000 for April?

Does mere sentiment reduce our steel mill output to 60 per cent, of its capacity? Was it hysteria that blew out 15,000 Pennsylvania coke ovens?

No, it was not a "merely psychological" nation that unloaded American-made traffic from 230,000 freight cars and put them out of commission. Baldwin's didn't discharge more than half their employees out of pique.

Building operations in the United States have not fallen greatly simply to create political sentiment. Our bankers are not sending shiploads of gold to Europe to spite somebody.

When securities have been liquidated in 18 months to a level $2,000,000,000 below their former value the country is not suffering psychologically, but concretely.

It is an outrageous mockery for those whose excessive legislative meddling is largely responsible for our present trade ills to pretend that the people who have suffered the loss and who are out of work are themselves to blame.

The President says there is "nothing more dangerous for business than uncertainty." But his party has left business in no uncertainty whatever, except as to the extent of the calamity which it may inflict.

SENSIBLY-DRESSED GIRL MAY ALWAYS FIND STEADY EMPLOYMENT.

Chicago.—Young women with good dispositions, average attractiveness and with no slit skirt, lowest necks or flat curls gummed on their cheeks need never lack employment in Chicago, provided that they possess a reasonable degree of competency. This was the result of a discussion of the subject here by employment heads of a number of large department stores and mail order concerns and experts from the Women's Trade Union league and several civic bodies.

One employer said that the greatest problem is the middle-aged woman who has grown careless of her appearance. Another declared that it was freakish girls. A third said that the hardest kind of girl to find a place for was the college girl with no vocational training.

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelled Backache, Headaches and Dizziness.

Piqua, Ohio.—"I would be very ungrateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I hear a woman complain I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness. I had backache, pains in my hips and over my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I was hardly able to do my housework. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me, so I took it again and it has built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have my hearty consent to use my name and testimonial in any way and I hope it will benefit suffering women." —Mrs. ORRINA TURNER, 431 S. Wayne St., Piqua, Ohio.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

GIVE ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS

To Help Boys and Fight Mail Order Houses.

Citizens of Plain City, Madison County, Ohio, will spend $1,000 on junior contest work this year. Farmers have joined with bankers and merchants in making up this large sum of money to encourage the growing and showing of farm products, and trips to Washington. SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy and help. If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week. If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder irregularities, or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, shallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the danger and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headache, and headache in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and it is not interfered with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To receive this, you can cut out this offer, check your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address: MRS. M. S. HUNTERS KILL HUGE EAGLE.

A large gray eagle, measuring over seven feet from tip to tip, which has been preying on young pigs, lambs, chickens and turkeys, was killed Tuesday by Messrs. O. T. Though wounded the bird went nearly two miles before being brought to the earth after several shots had entered its body. —Georgetown News.

CHEWING GUM MATERIAL.

It is estimated that 300,000,000 packages of chewing gum, each containing an average of five pieces are sold annually in the United States. These 1,500,000,000 sticks of gum, placed end to end, would extend 71,025 miles, or two and one half times around the world. If stretched into a thread one sixteenth of an inch in diameter it would reach a distance of 497,875 miles or from the earth to the moon, wrap three times around that satellite and back to the earth again. If the physical energy used in chewing this gum could be reduced to foot-pounds and applied to machinery it would furnish power in comparison with which Niagara Falls would be but insignificant.

WHY FARM LABOR IS SCARCE.

(Lexington Leader.)

The editor of the Leader, talking one day to Mr. Newman, Kentucky's Commissioner of Agriculture, about the various problems which confront the modern farmer, and many incidental subjects as well, asked him this question: "Why is farm labor so scarce?"

The Commissioner's answer was both prompt and enlightening. "The difficulty," he said, "is not so much with the security of farm laborers as it is with the conditions under which thousands of farm hands are asked to work. The old 'from sunup until sundown' idea is no longer attractive to the average man. Men do not want to get up and eat before dawn and labor on until it is too dark to work in the open and then devour their supper by lamp light. There are thousands of able bodied young men who would really prefer to remain in the country, but they are attracted to the city where they can get about the same return for their labor in a nine or ten-hour day. When there is a readjustment in farm life and farm business, based upon a nine working day, the farmer, as a rule, will be able to get all the help that he needs, and he will really get about as much for his money in a shorter day as he now gets for the long day, because the human frame can accomplish so much, and no more, in twenty-four hours."

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework."

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

NEWS and GOSSIP OF WASHINGTON

"It Ain't a Menagerie; Pull Down the Fence!"

WASHINGTON.—From an obscure corner of the congressional directory and a not overly well-known portion of the state of Indiana, steps into the limelight, one Henry A. Barnhart, member of congress from the Thirtieth district of the Hoosier state, and leader of a constituency of 258,674 souls.

From May 1, 1914, until time shall be no more, the Indiana congressman will be canonized on the pages of fame as the man who discovered that wild animals no longer roam the granite sidewalks of the District of Columbia, and the man who accordingly introduced a resolution in congress asking that Secretary Lane of the Interior department pull down the high picket fence that surrounds his ballfield. With a flowery wealth of legislative parlance, including sonorous and euphonic phrases, the "gentleman from Indiana" introduced his resolution in the house the other day.

It seems that at some time or other, the picket fence surrounding the Department of the Interior building, on the block bounded by Seventh, Ninth, F and G streets northwest, has held the attention of the Indiana congressman.

Lifting one hand majestically toward the skylight, Mr. Barnhart turned to the house, which waited with bated breath.

"Mr. Speaker," he announced, "this is my resolution:

"Whereas, wild animals no longer infest the business district of the national capital and horses, cattle and hogs are no longer permitted to roam at large therein, and,

"Whereas, ours is a nation of civilized people without need of restraint by barrier of high fences; therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America, in congress assembled, that the secretary of the Interior be, and hereby is, authorized to remove the iron fences now surrounding the buildings occupied by the department of the Interior and the general land office."

Tests Show the Value of Fresh Air Schools

THAT school children who are taught in fresh-air classrooms advance more rapidly in their studies and make greater improvement in weight and strength than children in regular classrooms is a conclusion demonstrated by Frank H. Mann of New York before the sociological section of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The speaker reported on a series of experiments carried on jointly by the New York committee on the prevention of tuberculosis and the board of education, in which three groups of children were studied to note the effect of fresh air upon them.

In one group the children were placed in fresh-air classes and were fed during school hours with milk and crackers morning and afternoon; in the second group the children were left in the ordinary classroom under regular conditions. Every effort was made to eliminate or equalize in the comparison such variable factors as age, home conditions, physical condition, school conditions, nativity, etc. The two groups of children in the fresh-air classes were all undernourished and anemic at admission.

The results of this experiment, extending from September to June, showed that all of the poorly nourished and anemic children in the fresh-air classes gained in weight, red corpuscles in the blood, general nutrition and physical tone. The gains were made for the most part independently of the home environment and of the financial conditions of the children's family, suggesting that the association between poverty and malnutrition in school children is not so close as has been commonly assumed, and that cases of extreme poverty with lack of necessary food at home are not nearly so prevalent as has been frequently stated.

It was also demonstrated that, even without school feeding, fresh-air classes can be run with advantage to the children of poor families, although the greatest benefit was obtained where extra feeding of children was employed.

Effort to Stop Traffic in Habit-Forming Drugs

IN A desperate effort to stop the traffic in habit-forming drugs in the United States, such as opium, cocaine, morphine and heroin, congress will, within the next few weeks, place upon the statute books a law that is more drastic than anything ever before attempted along this line.

This law, the consideration of which by the senate committee on finance has been delayed for many months, will require that every person who imports, manufactures, sells or gives away opium, morphine, coca leaves, cocaine or any of their derivatives or preparations shall register his name with the collector of internal revenue of the district.

Further, he shall not sell this opium, cocaine, heroin or morphine except in pursuance of a written order on a form to be issued in blank for that purpose by the commissioner of internal revenue of the United States treasury department. This order shall be kept on file for a period of two years by the dealer, that it may be accessible for inspection by federal and state officials. The purchaser of these drugs must keep a duplicate of the form for similar inspection.

In other words, if a citizen is addicted to the use of opium or cocaine, and purchases either of these drugs, he must be on public record as a drug addict and the dealer on record as a person who is willing to sell to the unfortunate. The law will make certain exceptions in the use of these drugs for purely medicinal purposes when procured on a written prescription from a physician.

"Business" Is Now Dead for Capital's Beggars

"PANHANDLERS" who hang out under the trees along Pennsylvania avenue a few blocks from the treasury have come to the conclusion that "business" here is "dead." The "first aid" ticket of the Associated Charities is blamed by the beggars. The nickels and dimes obtained from citizens of prosperous appearance during the old rich years have gone. Instead the "panhandler" now is given a "first aid" ticket.

When somebody devised the ticket plan packages of the tickets, done up like mileage books, were issued to the business and professional men of Washington.

The "first aid" ticket is the printed application of a citizen for help on behalf of some individual who is supposed to need it. So far the plan has worked well, hence the complaint of the beggars that "business" is poor.

There was a time in Washington when an alert panhandler could net $4 to $6 on any pleasant summer evening—all in money, mostly nickels and dimes. But now times have changed. Within the past few weeks Washington has been flooded with "first aid" tickets and the tired business man, instead of shelling out his nickel or his dime, tears off a "first aid" ticket and goes his way rejoicing.

The officials of the Associated Charities are pleased with the plan. They say that a man really needing help will come to them, get what he requires and subject his case to the investigation of the charity workers. If he's a professional he wants cash and cash only and he never comes near.

Remarkable Progress.

"That's our general superintendent—son of the president—he began at the bottom and worked up—started in as an oiler, right after he left college!"

"When was that?"

"Oh, he graduated last June."

Expensive Thirst.

"My husband seems pink elephants when he drinks."

"Mine has a worse delusion than that. He sees greasy dogs. It's expensive, too."

"How's that?"

"Why, he goes and buys licenses for 'em."

MEXICO'S BEVERAGE KNOWN AS PULQUE IS DEADLY DRINK

Responsible for Degradation and Misery of Peons.

ADULTERATED IN THE CITIES

Cultivators of the Maquey Plant, From Which Intoxicant Is Made, Live Like Feudal Lords—Little Cultivation Is Required.

Kansas City.—Dispatches from Vera Cruz say that after the recent battle between the American marines and the Mexican soldiers the remnants of the troops of General Maas raided a couple of cantinas or liquor shops and were soon wandering along the streets of the city intoxicated, says the Kansas City Times. It is fairly safe to assume that the shops' supply of pulque, the national drink of Mexico, was confiscated; for the peon fills himself up with this strange drink on the slightest provocation.

Cultivating the maquey plant, from which pulque is made, is one of Mexico's most lucrative industries, ranking almost on a par with gold and silver mining, coffee growing and the cultivation of tropical fruits and products. The plant grows to best advantage and greatest height on the table lands of Mexico. The plant of Agave, not far from the City of Mexico, is noted for producing the best pulque in the republic.

Acres and acres of the huge plants can be seen growing on the great haciendas. The trunk of the plant is a pineapple-shaped bulb with roots widely spread out into the ground. This bulb is called the "corazon" or heart, and contains within a soft vegetable pulp. From the outside huge blades 10 to 15 feet long radiate, armed along their edges with sharp, strong points, and culminating at the top in a longer and stronger spike.

Being a desert plant, the maquey requires none of the cultivation and care that is necessary in the cultivation of other crops. From the time of its planting until the sap rises in its heart little or no attention is necessary. In setting out a plantation the Mexican divides his land into 16 or 20 sections. One of these sections he plants at one time, another at another, until he has so arranged the tract that one bunch of maqueys will mature one year, the next bunch the ensuing year and so on, until a sort of continuous chain of pulque producers exist, giving an inexhaustible supply year after year, and an equally inexhaustible supply of dineros to the owner of the hacienda. No plant, however, will give forth sap until its tenth year, and then only upon the very eve of blossoming. It is rarely allowed to bloom, as this destroys the sap. The Mexicans have a favorite couplet extolling the virtue of this plant, which says:

Comida, bebida,
Casa, y vestido.

This means that the maquey plant is "food, drink, house and clothing." Such an assertion is a little exaggerated, but it is a fact that from the maquey one can obtain pulque, tequila, an intoxicant somewhat resembling Scotch whisky; mescal, like tequila, but stronger; fuel, thatching material for the adobe hut and needles and thread. By carefully cutting off the sharp spike at the top of each maquey blade and following the strong fiber which extends from it to the heart of the plant, sowing material of a rude sort is obtained. The poverty-stricken Indians in the valleys of Mexico use this primitive needle and thread extensively.

When sap time comes the sap gatherer cuts into the bulb from the top and digs out the corazon a few inches. He then covers the cavity with a maquey blade and goes to the next plant, which he treats in a like manner. Within two or three hours he returns to the first plant and finds the bulb filled with sap—aqua miel, or honey water, it is called. Into this he dips the small end of a queer receptacle made from the Mexican gourd. It is really a rude siphon. He sucks the sap into the gourd. Then he opens a large bag made from the skin of a pig, which he carries on his shoulder, and pumps the sap into it from the siphon.

When newly taken from the bulb the sap is thick, white and sweet and tastes something like sweet elder. In this state, while not yet pulque, it is very agreeable and not the least intoxicating.

For three or four months repeated visits are made to every plant tapped and the sap withdrawn. When the last drop has been taken from it the great plant droops, its blades sag to the ground and it becomes a dirty brown. It is then dug up and hauled away to be used as fuel and thatching and, perhaps, needles and thread.

One load after another of this aqua miel the gatherer gathers in the pink pigskin to the building on the hacienda where the pulque is made. It is poured into vats made of cowhide. The hair side of the hide is uppermost, so that the liquor is poured on the hair.

A small quantity of fermented sap is placed with the fresh, and soon a great white foam forms on the top and rises into a sort of pyramid as fermentation is complete. It is a thick, sour liquid, sickening to one who has not cultivated a taste for it. There is nothing that can be compared to the taste of pulque, nor, for that matter, to its smell. That is usually enough for most visitors to the country. But it is said that good pulque, after one has grown accustomed to it, is an exceedingly agreeable beverage.

Once fermented, the pulque is loaded on the hacienda's own trains and shipped to its destination. Often a peon will own a few maquey plants somewhere, and it is a common sight in the City of Mexico to see one of them driving a diminutive burro laden with two pigskins full of the "liquor divine," or, if he doesn't own a burro, he carries the pulque filled skin on his back to the cantina.

When it is first shipped pulque is no more harmful or intoxicating than real light beer, and it is said to be beneficial to those suffering from liver and stomach troubles. But no sooner does it reach the large cities than the work of adulterating it begins. Water is used sometimes. In the majority of cases, however, it is heavily doped with extract of Jimson weed, which makes it exceedingly intoxicating. Two glasses of it will make a man roaring drunk. And to this cause are traced largely the degradation and misery of the peon class.

This drugging continues despite the attempts of the government to prohibit it. The Indians, after having acquired a taste for the doped pulque, refuse to drink the unadulterated product. Cantinas, or pulque shops, can be found on almost every corner, and on each one glories in a picturesque title. Inside they are gaily decorated with paintings of saints, usually of "La Virgen de Guadalupe," and with pictures of a religious nature.

Pulque is the never-failing beverage of the servant class of Mexico. Any engrador, or porter, upon delivering a package, will give forth grievous sighs as if entirely worn out and end by requesting "Unos centavos, señor, para mi agita."—"A few cents for the little water."

The owners of some of the large haciendas live like feudal lords on their vast estates. They have a large retinue of servants and retainers. They are men of great wealth and power. Each hacienda is a little town in itself, with its collection of adobe houses and stores, all the property of the owner of the ranch.

Cape Cod Now An Island

By Opening of Sluiceway Waters of the Two Bays Mingle in the Canal.

Buzzards Bay.—By the opening of a sluiceway in Foley's dike, the chief obstacle that remains in the Cape Cod canal, the waters of Cape Cod bay and Buzzards bay mingled for the first time recently and the cape itself became an island.

August Belmont, president of the canal construction company, poured together hordes of water, one taken from Cape Cod bay and the other from Buzzards bay, as the sluiceway was opened, and said:

"May the meeting of these waters bring happiness and prosperity to our country and save some of the misery which the waters of the cape have caused in the past."

The canal is not expected to be ready for traffic for several months, for there is still considerable dredging to be done. The dike will be removed, probably on June 21, with the fifth anniversary of the beginning of the work on the canal. By July 4 small vessels will be able to go through the new waterway.

The opening of the sluiceway was for the purpose of permitting berrings to pass through the canal. They abound in Monument river, over the course of which the canal runs for some distance. Shadrach Smith promised Mr. Belmont to catch for him the first herring that passed through the sluiceway.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By O. E. REILLY, Director of Evening Golden Text—To the Kingdom of God is within you." Luke 17:21.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 7 COMING OF THE KINGDOM.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 17:20-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—"To the Kingdom of God is within you." Luke 17:21.

I. The Kingdom Present, vv. 20, 21. The Pharisees held some peculiar ideas about the coming of the kingdom. Contrary to their ideas there are no special outward signs to herald its coming. The word "observation" v. 20, is an astronomical one and suggests that the kingdom was to come in a bodily shape from the sky, a current expectation on the part of the Pharisees.

In answer to the boastful Pharisees (v. 20) Jesus plainly told them that he himself is the kingdom, and that that kingdom was in their midst or "among you," see (v. 21) margin. Their question was a flippant one, one of unbelief, and to it Jesus makes a characteristically brief, but clear reply, that partook of the nature of a rebuke. The kingdom would not come with trumpets and drum. They could not say, "Lo here! lo there!" Its coming was not to be spectacular, arresting the attention of some who in turn brought it to the attention of others. The authorized rendering "within you" does not imply that the kingdom already existed in the individual lives of his questioners. Subsequent teaching of Jesus shows that he here refers to another and that the final coming of the kingdom, at the time of the final coming of the son of man.

II. The Visible Son of Man, vv. 22-24. The kingdom in its outward form was rejected by the Jews, John 1:26, 27. In its spiritual form it is now in the hearts of believers (Rom. 14:17), but he who was rejected with contempt will one day be sought after, though in vain, Matt. 23:37-39. During the time of his absence many shall claim to be Christ (v. 23), but we are not to believe such claims. History has abundantly proved and fulfilled this prophecy. When he really comes there will be a sudden publicity (v. 24), that shall flash from one corner to the other of the heavens, Matt. 24:27; then "every eye shall behold him." "So shall the son of man be in his day." This instruction Jesus gives to his disciples. Men shall search for him, a time when he shall not be present as he then was. After the false ones will come a day of revelation when the whole heavens will reveal him and all will know it.

Finality of Events.
III. The Day of the Son of Man, vv. 25-27. Before that day comes, however, he must suffer and be rejected, but following that rejection men will marry, carry on merchandising and merriment as in the days of Noah and those of Lot. In the days of Noah and of Lot there came a sudden halt in these activities and a judgment of flood and fire, even so "after the same manner shall it be in the day that the son of man is revealed." v. 30. This refers to the finality of events when the kingdom of God comes by way of judgment. Here Jesus sets his seal upon the truthfulness of these two events which preceded his first advent. If they be not true then he is a false teacher. Like as men disregarded those events they likewise would set aside his teaching about his second advent. Many claim that verse 31 refers to the destruction of Jerusalem; the context to us clearly disproves any such interpretation. Verses 32 and 33 must be taken together. The folly of Lot's wife turning back is all too apparent, but if we are to gain true life we must lose, turn our backs upon, a worldly life. Attention has been called to the fact that the word "lose" (v. 33) is the one ordinarily translated "destroy," proving that the Bible word "destruction" does not mean annihilation. We might well call verse 34 and 35 the account of a "select migration." At his first return there will be some strange separations. One taken, another left. Such separations often have been realized when men accept Christ; when Christians find themselves separated from their old companions, for his sake, but most of all "it will be when Christ shall burst upon the world at his second coming. Jesus' reference to the "body" (v. 37) means the dead and corrupt state of things and "the eagles" to the instruments of judgment.

Summary. Quite emphatically this passage is a teaching on the subject of the coming of the kingdom of God. That kingdom came when Christ came in grace. It will come when he comes in judgment. It is coming constantly between the two advents. Remember his reading of Isaiah's prophecy, Luke 4:18, 19; cf. Isa. 61:1-9. In his first advent he did come to preach the acceptable year, the year of grace. That day is still with us. In his second advent he will proclaim the day of the vengeance of God. He will establish the kingdom, will build the waste places and raise desolations. Today the kingdom of God is among us in power through the presence of Christ by the spirit in the living church.

To the Pharisees he said: "Neither shall they say, lo here! lo there! for the kingdom is in your midst." To his disciples he said: "They shall say to thee: lo here! lo here! go not away nor follow them." We cannot localize the kingdom. On an ancient Syrian fragment the words of Luke 1:33 read, "and to his kingdom there shall be no frontier." On the lips of the Pharisees, kingdom meant a political organization and empire. With Jesus it means a spiritual realm universal in extent, a rule of righteousness, and peace and joy in the holy spirit. When he appears all will know and know that others know. When men say that the kingdom of God is to be somewhere and suddenly and perfectly set up, they are wrong.

CANADA'S PLACE AS A PRODUCER

Canada Is Getting a Great Many Americans.

"Three young provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta," says a New York financial journal, "have already made Winnipeg one of the great east primary wheat markets of the world. In 1904 they raised 58,000,000 bushels of wheat. Five years later they produced 150,000,000 bushels. In 1913 the crop approximated 200,000,000 bushels. At the present rate of progress Canada must soon pass France and India, and stand third in the line of wheat producers. Ultimately it will dispute with Russia and the United States for the first position. Wheat has been the pioneer of our development. Undoubtedly it will prove the same with Canada. In the last calendar year our trade with Canada amounted to 497 million dollars. Only with two countries—the United Kingdom and Germany—is our trade greater. No vivid imagination is needed to see what the future development of Canada means to the people of the United States.

The influx of American settlers to the Canadian prairies is now in full swing. Within the past few days over 80 of these arrived at Bassano carrying with them effects and capital to the value of $100,000. Fifty settlers from Oregon arrived in Alberta a few days ago; while 15 families of settlers from the state of Colorado arrived at Calgary on their journey northwards. The goods and personal effects of this party filled 20 box cars. Of live stock alone they had 175 horses, 15 cows and 2,000 head of poultry. Another class of settler has arrived at Peers, 110 miles west of Edmonton, where no fewer than 200 German farmers have taken up land. These are from good farming families and brought with them a large amount of capital.

Then in South Western Saskatchewan, there are large numbers settling, these from the United States predominating, while in the northern and central portions of all these provinces, the settlement of now people is going on steadily. Early in April, Peter Goertz arrived in Cardiff after a six-day journey from Melbourne, Kansas. Mr. Goertz who had purchased land here was in charge of a party of 38 people from the same part of Kansas and they came through with a special train which included all their stock and implements. The equipment was all Rock Island cars, and was the first full immigrant train ever sent out by that railroad. The farms purchased by the members of the party are amongst the best in the district.

When the Panama exposition opens next year any of the three transcontinental lines in Canada will make convenient means of transport for those going to visit, and in doing so agricultural districts of Western Canada can be seen, and ocular demonstration given those who have heard but not before seen, of that which has attracted so many hundreds of thousands of American settlers.—Advertiser.

Prudent Youth.
A young society woman was having a chat one evening with a young man whom she had just met. They were in the conservatory.
"Which do you admire the greater," inquired the young belle, "black eyes or blue?"
"Well, really, replied the young fellow, slowly, 'the light is so dim here I can't say just now.'—Monthly Magazine.

"AND HER NAME WAS MARY"

London, June 5.—The King and Queen held court at Buckingham Palace last night and in spite of all precautions a militant suffragette gained access to their presence and caused an interruption in the presentations.

As she was passing the King and the suffragette dropped to her knees and shouted: "Your Majesty, for God's sake, do not use force."

The woman was attired in court dress and her action caused profound astonishment. She continued to admonish the King, but her words were inaudible, as the conductor of the band in the gallery, quick to observe the incident, signaled the band to play louder and the woman's voice was drowned. She was immediately removed from the room and handed over to the police.

The name of the woman is not known, and close inquiries are being made as to how she obtained a card of admission.

The scene, which gave a shock to those in the immediate vicinity of the royal circle, was brief, and the assembly generally had scarcely any knowledge of what was transpiring.

Whether the woman was one of the invited guests who sympathized with the suffragette movement, or an intruder who gained admission by forged card is still unknown. It is difficult, however, to imagine how any person could have gained access to the court on a forged invitation, as the police had knowledge of a conspiracy to approach the royal presence and every guest and every carriage arriving at Buckingham Palace last night had been subjected to close inspection by detectives—a unique precaution, and one that caused considerable delay and not a little indignation or irritation in court circles.

Last night's incident is calculated to produce a feeling of still greater exasperation in the public mind and renewed demands for strong measures to suppress the suffragette agitation.

London, June 5.—Officials of the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant organization, deny responsibility for the incident at Buckingham Palace last night when a woman interrupted the presentations by throwing herself at the king's feet.

There are a few modest men in the world. But there never was a man who didn't claim to be a good judge of human nature.
A woman's idea of Economy is to spend 45 cents making 3 cents worth of stale bread up into an alleged "pudding" that nobody will eat.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube.
When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound in your ears, and when it is severely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; therefore, out of ten are cured by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.
